ACADEMIC COURSE SCHEDULE

FALL 2026: August 17, 2026 - December 4, 2026

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

BIB110 Old Testament Literature (3) A course that has as its primary content the Old Testament, stressing the major features of each book and emphasizing the practical value for our modern context. Special attention is also given to analyzing the literary and theology characteristics of the text, as well as the theology, chronology, archeology, and historical background of each book.

BIB220 Biblical Exegesis (3) Prerequisite: BIB110, BIB120; This course introduces the principles and methods by which a faithful meaning of the Scriptures may be obtained. Its primary focus, but is not limited, to New Testament interpretation. This course also introduces the student to both essential research tools such as critical commentaries, dictionaries, lexicons, and serves as a foundational course for biblical preaching and teaching.
BIB315 Job (3) Prerequisite: BIB110, BIB120, BIB220; A literary study of the Hebrew Poetic book, Job, with an emphasis on understanding the literary structure, themes, and applications. This course covers the historical background, theological themes, and ministerial application of various topics such as suffering, death, and wisdom.

THE103 Introduction to Systematic Theology (3) This course introduces the student to systematic Christian doctrine as expressed through the perspective of the larger evangelical tradition. This includes an in-depth study of the methodology, Bibliology, Theology proper, Christology, Pneumatology, Soteriology, Ecclesiology, and Eschatology. Special emphasis is placed on the articulation of theology for our modern context.
THE182 Comparative Religions (3) Prerequisite: THE103, THE124, THE256; A study of the origins, fundamental principles, and holy writings of the various religions and cults of the world. The course will provide the student with an introductory understanding of the various religious views and customs of various beliefs.
MIN115 Spiritual Disciplines (3) A study of the biblical and theological foundations of spiritual formation. The course seeks to establish a sound theological framework for a functioning spirituality within the Pentecostal tradition. Such topics as prayer, worship community, and other such disciplines will be considered.
MIN120 Practicum II: Personal Ministerial Development (1) Topics covered for this course include the spiritual practices, developing personal character and integrity as a minister, dealing with people in ministry through conflict management and problem-solving skills, and the professional responsibilities of the minister with family life, social life, and spiritual life.
MIN224 Spiritual Care and Healing (3) This course is designed to give the student an opportunity to discover the vital link between spiritual care and inner healing. The student will acquire the skill to minister to the needs of the people seeking help for deep spiritual problems and articulate the teachings and practices of the Pentecostal movement in the area of spiritual warfare and deliverance.

COL101 College Success (3) The purpose of this course is to introduce the student to the essential learning and studying techniques for the college level. The student will be acquainted with problem solving skills necessary to overcome common obstacles that college students encounter.
COM220 Writing Composition (3) This course introduces students to the principles and practice of college-level writing. Students will develop the competencies necessary to write coherent, cohesive, and appropriate texts for academic and professional contexts. Emphasis will be placed on the writing process, organization of ideas, grammar, punctuation, style, revision, and clarity. Upon completion of the course, students will be able to plan, draft, revise, and edit expository, argumentative, and narrative texts with increasing effectiveness.
HIS165 U.S. History (3) This course is a survey of major political, economic, social, diplomatic, and intellectual trends and events in United States history from the pre-colonial period to the present. Attention is given to the collision and creation of cultures during colonization, the development of slavery, the American Revolution and national origins, the growth and division of the nation before the Civil War, the building of the modern industrial society, growing involvement in international relations, the evolution of a multi-ethnic community, and social reform movements of the 20th and 21st centuries.

MNG110 Principles of Management (3) Discusses the development of an integrated concept of principles of management which have general applicability to all types of organizations. A study of principles involved in the functions of planning, organizing, staffing, directing and controlling an organization. An introduction to basic management philosophy and the decision-making process. (online only)
